WILL PUBLISH NEXT WEEK:

I.

Life and Letters of Emory Upton.

Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Artillery, and Brevet Major-General U. S. Army. By PETER S. MICHIE, Professor U. S. Military Academy. With an introduction by JAMES HARRISON WILSON, late U. S. Army. With Portraits. 12mo, cloth. Price, $2.00.

"The subject of the following memoir was widely known by reputation in the military profession, and the story of his life would, at least to military men, have been a matter of passing interest. The tragic circumstances of his death seemed to demand some explanation in harmony with his established reputation and character. At the earnest solicitation of his nearest relatives, the author, although conscious of his own deficiencies, undertook the task of compiling a brief record of General Upton's life for his family and immediate personal friends."—From Preface.

II.

The Tinted Venus.

A FARCICAL ROMANCE. By F. ANSTEY, author of "Vice Versa," "The Giant's Robe," etc. 12mo, paper. Price, 25 cents. Authorized edition.

"The Tinted Venus," by the author of "Vice Versâ," is designated by the author "a farcical romance" rightly enough, for in strange and grotesque invention it equals if it does not outdo, his "Vice Versâ."

III.

For 1885 [Sixteenth Year].

The Educational Catalogue has been found so valuable to the Trade, not only as a finding list, but for circulation among educational customers, for the purpose of soliciting orders and saving at the same time much troublesome correspondence, that its permanent continuance is recognized as a necessity.

The catalogue this year follows the alphabetical system pronounced by the experience of the trade the most satisfactory for practical use. It includes a price-list arranged alphabetically by author's or editor's name, and a detailed subject-index, referring from each specific subject to authors of books on that subject, so that the advantages of both a finding list for the trade and a class catalogue for the use of schools are combined. No other list in the market gives this practical combination.

The list has been entirely reset, to include the new books in their proper alphabetical order, and also to embody all the corrections of prices, omissions, or other errors in last year's catalogue.

Publishers' prices are in all cases given—retail, if retail (in first column); "net," if "net" (in second column); where a "mailing" percentage is specified by the publisher, the "mailing price" is given in the retail column marked with an asterisk. A carefully drawn explanation in the heading, to private buyers, adapts the catalogue to the use of the retail trade.

It should be understood that, of the regular retail-price publishers, only the retail price is given, and the net prices only of those publishers who make it a practice to mail net-price lists to schools—in fact, make their net prices their regular school-supply prices. This point is emphasized in order to meet the objections raised to the quotation of net prices.

It should be well considered that any attempt at withholding, from the educational public, what the publisher, through his agents, advertisements, lists, and circulars, takes special pains to make known, must be an unwise policy. It is not objectionable, but quite proper and legitimate, to charge the retail or mailing price for single copies of any book; but the Educational Catalogue is not generally given away to single-book customers. It is intended only for those who purchase for schools in quantities. Now any one putting himself on record by quoting fictitious prices, or prices other than those quoted by the publisher (which prices, it is now understood, are generally still subject to a trade discount), necessarily must drive his school trade into the hands of those who solicit their orders from a catalogue, the prices of which tally with that of the publishers.

The following paragraph from a previous year's Educational Catalogue further elucidates the reasons for our strict adherence to publishers' prices: "Plainly, if it wished to sustain its official character, it was bound to respect the desire of those who have a right to stand by their prices, and who, should their established prices be disregarded, could by their public protest soon discredit the Educational Catalogue as well as those who handled it for circulation. At a time when the public mind, from causes so often discussed and lamented in these columns, is fast losing faith in honest prices, so far as books are concerned, it is of the utmost importance that there be one official list which can be consulted with confidence by the public, as well as by the trade.

In making up special orders for the Educational Catalogue, booksellers should bear in mind that it possesses not only temporary value, but will serve its purpose during the whole year. No imprint edition of less than 100 copies can be supplied. Orders for editions should be sent to us at once.

CASH TERMS.

With sole imprint of ordering firm, and stitched, per 100 copies, $5; per 1000, $40.

There is no extra charge for printing name, business card, etc., on the imprint page; the last page is left blank at the disposal of the dealer, but any copy for that, advertising special lines or general business, will be set up and printed thereon for $5, or $1 if plate is sent.

 Copy for imprint and shipping directions should accompany the order.

The regular Educational Number of "THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY" will be supplied at 25 cents per copy, or five for $1, postpaid.

NOTES IN SEASON.

T. Y. CROWELL & Co. have issued neat editions of the Revised Bible and of the Revised Old Testament.

W. S. GOTTSBERGER issues to-day, "Matilda, Princess of England," a romance of the Crusaders, by Mme. Sophie Cottin, author of "Elizabeth; or, the Exiles of Siberia," translated from the French by Jennie W. Raum, and edited by George E. Raum. This work has been characterized by Joseph François Michaud as "a work full of eloquent pictures and heroic sentiments, drawn from the history of chivalry."

D. APPLETON & Co. will publish next week "Life and Letters of Emory Upton, Colonel of the Fourth Regiment of Artillery, and Brevet-Major-General U. S. Army," by Professor Peter S. Michie, of the U. S. Military Academy, with an introduction by James Harrison Wilson; "The Tinted Venus," a new story by F. Anstey, author of "Vice Versâ," etc.; and new editions of Appleton's "General Guide to the United States and Canada," and of their "Handbook of Summer Resorts."

HOUGHTON, MIFFLIN & Co. publish to-day "Marblehead Sketches," by Anne Ashby Agge and Mary Mason Brooks, a volume of characteristic sketches of a most picturesque New England town; the third part of the sumptuous edition of "English and Scottish Popular Ballads," edited by Francis J. Child; Dr. Newman Smyth's sermons to workingmen reprinted from the Andover Review, under the title of "Social Problems," and Aldrich's "The Stillwater Tragedy," another volume in their Riverside Paper Series.

LEE & SHEPARD have just published "The Hunter's Hand-book," a useful manual for all who fish, hunt, or camp out, giving a large amount of information concerning game, comfort in camp, what to cook, how to cook, etc. They have in press "Memoirs of Sarah and Angelina Grimke;" also, "How to Keep Well," a text-book of health, for use in the lower grade of schools, with special reference to the effects of stimulants and narcotics on the bodily life, by Albert F. Blaisdell, M.D., author of "Our Bodies, or, How We Live."

S. E. CASSINO & Co. have just ready "The Technology of Bacteria Investigation: Concise Directions for the Study of Bacteria, their Culture, Staining, Inoculation, Mounting, etc., according to the Methods Employed by the Most Eminent Microbists," by Dr. C. S. Dolley; also, "The Microscope in Botany: A Guide for the Microscopical Investigation of Vegetable Substances," by Dr. Julius Wilhelm Behrens, translated from the German by Rev. A. B. Hervey and Dr. R. H. Ward, and illustrated with thirteen plates and one hundred and fifty-three wood-cuts.

WILLIAM WOOD & Co. make the important announcement that they will publish a translation of Professor Ziemssen's "Hand-book of General Therapeutics," a work comprising seven volumes, which will be issued at short intervals, the first volume being now ready. It is stated that this series of volumes is the first work of the kind published in any language. Each part, written by a German authority eminent in his own department of practice, forms a treatise complete in itself. Several of the topics handled in the series have as yet received comparatively little attention at the hands of medical writers in this country, though their importance is becoming daily more fully recognized by the profession. The plan of the series contemplates forming a complementary work to the "Encyclopædia of the Practice of Medicine," and to present a thorough survey of the state of general therapeutics at the present time. The volumes are supplied only to purchasers who order the entire work.

GEORGE ROUTLEDGE & SONS have just ready two new books by Augustus J. C. Hare. The one entitled "Studies in Russia" does not profess to contain many original observations, but is, to use the author's own language, "a gathering up of such information as its author has been able to obtain from the lips or writings of those better informed than himself, and for which he would have been so thankful before his own visit to Russia." The result is a most interesting volume, which will prove most welcome to those curious to know something of this vast empire, and useful to those who are likely to travel there. The illustrations are from the author's own sketches, taken upon the spot, often under the fear—almost the certainty—of arrest, and sometimes of imprisonment. The other volume is entitled "Wanderings in Spain," and will be found in every respect as interesting as the author's "walks" in other countries. The books, with their black cloth bindings relieved by the red bands and gold lettering, are very attractively gotten up.

Clark, H. H. Boy life in the United States navy. Bost, D. Lothrop & Co., [1885.] 313 p. il. D. cl., $1.50.

The story of a young boy from Maine, who shipped in the U. S. navy. While telling his adventures, the author gives a detailed account of the entire naval system from the boy's first entrance; information is furnished regarding wages, services required, mode of enlisting, studies, and the entire life aboard the U. S. training ship Minnesota. The book is both interesting and instructive; it is a true picture of a healthy, attractive life that is little known to the general public, and full enough of adventures to please all boy readers.

Clifford, W: Kingdon. The common sense of the exact sciences. N. Y., Appleton, 1885. 11+271 p. D. (International scientific ser., no. 50.) cl, $1.50.

story is told in a charming poetical style, from her exit from Paradise, where she rebels against Adam's asserted superiority, and through her residence in the shadow-world as the mate of Eblis. "If the poem has either moral aim or lesson of any kind," says the writer, "it is simply to show that the strongest intellectual powers contain no elements adverse to the highest and purest exercise of the effectual nature."

Douglas, Rob. K. China. Bost., D. Lothrop & Co., [1885.] 4-566 p. il. D. (Lothrop's historical library.) cl., $1.50.

A table of contents and an index are features of this republication, omitted in the English edition; the text has also been revised, to make it more useful to its new readers. The various chapters deal with the history of the empire in brief, its government, religions, its educational system, the nurture of the young, superstitions, funeral and wedding rites, the language, food, and dress, honors, architecture, music, medicine, and other subjects.

Du Boisgobey, F. The Prima Donna's husband. N. Y., G: Munro, [1885.] 147 p. S. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 475.) pap., 20 c.

Dunning, Charlotte. Upon a cast. N. Y., Harper, 1885. 4-330 p. S. cl., $1.

In the "prologue" one of the two heroes throws a coin, and because it twice falls head upward he goes to the Langham Hotel, and thus indirectly takes the first step toward acquaintance with the heroine. This is the "cast" that gives the name to this gossippy story of love and idleness. The scene is laid in a Hudson River village described as Newbroek. Six months of spring and summer are devoted by the heroine to riding, rowing, boating, driving, lawn-tennis, picnics, walks, etc. She embodies every womanly charm of person and intellect. To the last she remains doubtful which of her devoted lovers she really favors, and at the end dismisses one and accepts the other with some precipitation. The writer displays great liking for horses.

Ebers, G: Serapis: an historical novel; from the German by Mary Stuart Smith. N. Y., G: Munro, [1885.] 216 p. S. (Seaside lib., pocket ed., no. 474.) pap., 20 c.—Same, 57 p. Q. (Seaside lib., no. 2022.) pap., 20 c.

England, Rev. J: Works of the Rt. Rev. John England, Bishop of Charleston, S. C., ed. by Hugh P. McElrone. Balt., The Baltimore Pub. Co., 1885. 2 v. O. cl., $5; hf. tky. or hf. cf., $7.50.

Forbes, H: O. A naturalist's wanderings in the Eastern archipelago: a narrative of travel and exploration from 1878 to 1883; with il. from the author's sketches and descriptions by J: B. Gibbs. N. Y., Harper, 1885. 15+536 p., maps and il. O. cl., $5.

The author's most important explorations were through the Cocos-Keeling Islands and the Timor-Laut Islands, the latter group being hitherto practically unknown. His route also took in the southern part of Sumatra and Java, the Moluccas, the Island of Buru, and the Portuguese territory in Timor. The work naturally gives special prominence to the fauna and flora of these Eastern countries; it is besides, however, a must interesting volume a travels, full of curious adventures and odd experiences and graphic descriptions of the home-life, habits, customs, amusements, etc., of the savage and semi-civilized people of the different islands. The numerous appendices to the work contain the more technical results of the author's labors, and embrace besides vocabularies and other valuable matter, lists of the plants, birds, insects, etc., brought home by him, with comments by eminent specialists. The index is quite full, and the illustrations and maps numerous and valuable. A colored plate of the "honey-eater" bird forms a frontispiece.

Gibbon, C: Heart's delight: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1885. 63 p. Q. (Harper's Franklin sq. lib., no. 473.) pap., 20 c.

A story of to-day, the scene laid in the Highlands of Scotland; the motive is the effort of Sir George Kerr, a rich landowner, to marry his daughter to a title; there is the old scheme of the false heir, and the girl loving faithfully, in spite of her father's plans, the young man of no social position, who turns out finally to be the real Earl of Benvoir. The "last of the Stuarts" figures in the story under the name of the Comte de Blanc.

Goff's hand-book of ready reference for advertisers, with universal compendium for business men. 2d ed. N. Y., Azro Goff, 1884. 228 p. D. pap., 50 c.

Gives a list of over 1600 best publications in the United States and Canadas in which to advertise; hints for advertisers; tells all about the metric system, U. S. and foreign coins, insurance, commercial paper, stocks and bonds, etc., etc.

Green, Anna Katherine. A strange disappearance. Popular ed. N. Y., G: P. Putnam's Sons, 1885. 39 p. Q. pap., 20 c.

Haberkorn, Dr.—Aerztlicher rathgeber für gesunde und kranke. Autorisirte Amerikanische ausgabe. In 11 pts. Pt. 1. N. Y., S. Zickel, [1885.] 16+32 p. col. pl. and il. O. pap. 15 c. (Sample copy gratis.)

Though written by a professional, and from a scientific point of view, this work will be found peculiarly adapted for popular reading. It is not so much a hand-book of cures, as a guide to preserving health. The weights, measures, etc., are adapted to American standards. The illustrations are neatly executed.

The three stories comprised under this title are "An apostle of the Tules," "Sarah Walker," and "A ship of '49." They are all stories of San Francisco in the pioneer days, and prove by their graphic pen pictures of persons and scenery that the author's pen has lost neither its fascination nor power.

Harvey, Rev. M. Text-book of Newfoundland history for the use of schools and academies. Bost., Doyle & Whittle, 1885. 202 p. map. and il. D. cl., $1.

The author of this little work has aimed at narrating the leading events in the history of Newfoundland in such clear and simple language as may attract the attention of the young, and at the same time prove interesting to those of mature years. While unnecessary details have been avoided, no event of importance has been passed over.

Johonnot, Ja. The sentence and word book: a guide to writing, spelling, and composition, by the word and sentence methods. N. Y., Appleton, 1885. 184 p. D. bds., 28 c.

In teaching reading, those who practise the word and sentence methods have met with a serious difficulty. They cannot find, in sufficient number, simple lessons with words expressing the ideas of home and of youthful experience. This book has been prepared with special reference to the difficulty here encountered. It selects and arranges words. It deals with familiar topics. It groups words that express ideas upon the same topic. It uses new words in such combinations that their meaning is understood. It is designed to help the teacher in all elementary language-instruction.

Longfellow (The) collectors' handbook: a bibliography of first editions. N. Y., W: Everts Benjamin, 1885. 2-56 p. nar. D. bds., $1.50.

This little manual contains exact transcripts of the titles, collations, and detailed descriptions, in order of publication, of every book written or edited by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. It is of particular value to collectors, librarians, and booksellers, because it describes the nine anonymous works and the text-books published when Longfellow was a professor at Bowdoin College.

Lykkejæger, Hans, (pseud.) Luck of a wandering Dane. Phil., A. M. Smith, 533 Chestnut St., 1885. 130 p. il. D. cl., 50 c.

The life and adventures of a Danish emigrant in America; told with some humor, and rather cleverly illustrated.

McLaughlin, J. Fairfax. The life and times of John Kelly, tribune of the people. N. Y., American News Co., 1885. 12+309 p. pors. D. cl., $1.50.

This life of "the best abused man in America" is "written without partisan bias," and "to promote no other object but the vindication of the truth of history." The narrative is associated with three great epochs in American history, in each of which John Kelly has acted a prominent part. "If," Mr. McLaughlin says, "he appears in the foreground of the picture which the author has attempted to sketch of those epochs, it is because no true history of them can be written without according to him such a place." The book contains three excellent likenesses of Mr. Kelly, taken at the ages respectively of 35, 50, and 58. To the many who only know him through the works of the caricaturist, they will prove an interesting study.

McMaster, J: Bach. A history of the people of the United States from the revolution to the civil war. In 5 v. V. 2. N. Y., Appleton, 1885. 21+656 p. maps, O. cl., $2.50.

The second volume of McMaster's "History of the people of the United States" extends from 1790 to 1804, including the greater part of the administration of Washington, all of that of Adams, and the first term of Jefferson. It will be found to be a singularly vivid and stirring picture of the period, throwing not a little new light on many political questions, and affording an insight into the manners and social condition of the people not elsewhere to be found, while some of its portraits of leading men are likely to provoke considerable discussion. The volume is handsomely printed and bound, has a very full index and a large colored map showing the various acquisitions of land by the United States from 1783 to 1885.

Malet, Lucas, [pseud. for Mrs. Harrison.] Colonel Enderby's wife: a novel. N. Y., Appleton, 1885. 3-388 p. D. pap., 50 c.

"It is rather more than two years and a half since the appearance of 'Mrs. Lorimer,' but few of the readers of that clever 'sketch in black and white' could have anticipated such a remarkable fulfilment of its promise as 'Colonel Enderby's wife.' In these days of hurried workmanship it is a welcome contrast to encounter a story which combines imagination, observation, and finish in such a high degree. This is no sketch, but a whole gallery of portraits which have not suffered from the author's elaborate method, but only gained in life-likeness. It is the history of a doubtfully successful 'deviation or deflection from a type,' and its general character may be gathered from the following maxim laid down by the author: "If a book tells a true story, it can hardly fail to end drearily. Why then should we hurry on so feverishly toward a foregone conclusion?"—The Athenæum.

Those who have formed an acquaintance with Dr. Pendleton's admirable work on "Christian Doctrines" will be pleased to see this more full presentation of his views on the atonement. The work is marked by the author's well-known lucidness of expression and deep reverence for the word, the work, and the person of the Lord.

Robinson, F. Mabel. Mr. Butler's ward: a novel. N. Y., Harper, 1885. 247 p. S. (Harper's handy ser., no. 8.) pap., 25 c.

Mr. Butler's ward is a young Irish girl, Dierdrè Dineen, the daughter of his bailiff, a hard, cruel man, who is shot, it is supposed, one night secretly, by some cottiers he has evicted. Dierdrè is educated in a convent in France, begins life as a governess, and is married twice. Her father's death has left such an indelible impression upon her mind that she seems at times to be insane. The scene of the story is laid alternately in France, England, and Ireland.

essay read before the Phil. Laryngological Soc. Ap. 24, 1885. Phil., F. A. Davis, 1885. 3+103 p. il. D. cl., $1.

Dr. Sajous says in his preface: "The comparatively large number of cases of so-called hay fever treated by the author within the last four years having enabled him to note the value of certain practical points in connection with its successful treatment, he respectfully dedicates this little volume in which they are collected to his professional brethren, hoping that the suggestions which it contains will be of service to them."

Scidmore, Miss E. Ruhamah. Alaska; its southern coast and the Sitkan Archipelago. Bost., D. Lothrop & Co., [1885.] 7+333 p. maps and il. D. cl., $1.50.

Mainly a republication of a series of letters that appeared in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat during the summer of 1883, and in the same paper and the New York Times during the summer of 1884. They describe two summers spent by Miss Scidmore in Alaska, and are full of authentic information concerning the people, climate, scenery, etc., etc. Miss Scidmore's descriptions are vivid and picturesque, and one can learn more from her pages than from the official reports that have been published. The book is well illustrated, and contains a map reduced from the last general chart published by the Coast Survey.

Shakespeare, W: Medical thoughts of Shakespeare; comp. by B. Rush Field, M. D. 2d ed. rev. and enl. Easton, Pa., Andrews & Clifton, 1885. 3–86 p. O. cl., $1; pap., 75 c.

Has been so thoroughly revised and so much enlarged that it is in reality a new book. Chapters on The Physician, Surgery, Physiology, Anatomy and Pharmacy have been added, together with over three hundred quotations. All medical allusions contained in the works of Shakespeare are reproduced in proper connection, with references, and also with such comments on the various topics as a modern medical man way be expected to make.

Sharswood, G:, and Budd, H: Leading cases in the law of real property decided in the American courts. V. 2, [1806–1856] with notes by H: Budd. Phil., M. Murphy, 1885. 691 p. O. shp. $6. (Corr. price.)

Comprises an examination of fourteen leading cases, selected on account of the recognition generally accorded them as authoritative expositions of the law. The subjects to which these cases relate and which are elaborated in the notes are: Base, qualified or determinable fee; Estates for years; Tenancy at sufferance; Tenancy at will; Tenancy from year to year; Farming on shares; Vendee in possession under contract of purchase; Remainders; Vested remainder; Contingent remainder; Cross remainders; Executory devises; Definite and indefinite failure of issue. The notes in this volume are by H: Budd only, the senior editor having died since the second volume was begun. In the preface Mr. Budd gives a brief memoir of his former associate in this work.

Stone, Mrs. Mary Amelia. A summer in Scandinavia. N. Y., A. D. F. Randolph & Co., [1885.] 2+204 p. il. D. cl., $1.25.

"Mrs. Stone has given us a pleasant record of an interesting and not yet hackneyed tour, through beautiful landscapes, sparkling waters, and noble cities, and among a people remarkable for civility, simplicity, and orderly habits. . . . She is a very sympathetic observer, and therefore her success in indicating the exact character of a town, or a view, or a trip is sometimes most enviable. . . . The book, moreover, has a prevailing tone of good-humor and good taste, in which stories of travel are apt to be lacking." —New York Tribune.

Swift, Jonathan. Selections from prose writings; with a preface and notes by Stanley Lane-Poole. N. Y., Appleton, 1885. 28+284 p. T. (Parchment ser.) parchment, $1.25.

"Selections have their justification. They serve a double object—to introduce and to remind. They provide the unadventurous reader with the easiest way to learn a little of an author he feels he ought to know; and they recall the fruits of fuller study to the memories of those who have passed on to other fields. . . . In Swift's case there are other reasons for such selection. Much of his work was concerned with the politics of his day, and this part has lost something of its flavor to all but historical students. Too often his best writings are defaced by a coarseness of illustration which, though it may find its parallel in the literature of the age, can hardly be excused, and can cerainly not be tolerated in a book for general reading."—From the Preface.

Talbot, C: R. A double masquerade: a romance of the Revolution. Bost., D. Lothrop & Co., [1885.] 3–307 p. D. cl., $1.25.

A young Virginian sojourning for a night at the "Sign of the Golden Ball," a wayside inn between Worcester and Boston, meets with an adventure which results in an interchange of clothes between himself and a midshipman in the royal navy. The scene shifts to Boston, where the collision of the young men, who are guests at the same house, leads to many funny incidents, and finally ends in the arrest of the young Virginian.

Twenty-two stories depicting the Russian peasant in the days when he was still a serf. This is the work that made Turgénieff's reputation. Its portraits are taken from life, and are wonderfully realistic and by no means flattered. They show the Russian peasant in all his degradation, the victim of a tyranny that debased the "seigneurs" and "lordlings" as much as it did the serfs. The most noticeable of the stories are "The burgomaster," "Lgove," "The two proprietors," "Kor and Kalinitch," and "The prairie."

Wormley, Theodore G. Micro-Chemistry of poisons, including their physiological, pathological, and legal relations; with an Appendix on the detection and microscopic discrimination of the blood, adapted to the use of the medical jurist, physician, and general chemist. 2d ed. Phil., J. B. Lippincott Co., 1885. 742 p. + 16 steel pl. cl., $7.50; shp., $8.50.

In the preparation of this new edition the previous one has been carefully examined and revised, advantage being taken of any new light which recent investigation has thrown on the subjects considered. The size of the volume has been materially increased, not only by a fuller and more satisfactory treatment of the topics formerly discussed, but by the description of tests and methods which late years have shown to be efficient, the introduction of new illustrative cases largely American, the consideration of such questions as poisoning by potassium, chlorate, post-mortem diffusion of arsenic, arsenic in medicine, fabrics, and glass, Dragendorf's method of the recovery of vegetable principles, the nature of ptomaines, the preparation, properties, and recovery of Jervine, etc., etc., and by the addition of an entirely new chapter on gelsemium poisoning, and an appendix on the nature, detection, and microscopic discrimination of the blood. The plates illustrate ninety-six agents. Appended is a tabular view of the behavior of certain alkaloids with reagents.

JOURNALISTIC NOTES.

The Literary World for June 13 contains a valuable Ruskin bibliography.

Harper's Bazar for June 27 contains an excellent portrait of the late "Hugh Conway."

A NEW story by Bret Harte, entitled "Maruja," is begun in this week's number of Harper's Weekly. It is illustrated by R. Caton Woodville.

PROFESSOR RAY LANKESTER is said to be preparing a review of Dr. Temple's Bampton Lectures (The Relations between Religion and Science) for the Fortnightly Review.

"AN UNHISTORIC PAGE," the humorous story by Frank R. Stockton which took one of the $500 prizes offered by the Youth's Companion last year, will appear in the issue of that periodical for June 25.

FRANK R. STOCKTON has written a continuation of "The Lady, or the Tiger?" It is called "The Discourager of Hesitancy," and it will appear in the July Century. Alphonse Daudet has written for the same issue a paper on the French Provençal poet, Frederick Mistral. Among the illustrated features of this number of The Century will be an article on "George Eliot's County," with pictures by Alfred Parsons and Homer Martin.

A TELEGRAPHIC CIPHER FOR EDUCATIONAL BOOKS.

MOST of the trade doubtless know the telegraphic cipher for the Eclectic Educational Series, furnished by Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co. with their wholesale price list. It enables telegraphic orders to be sent at a minimum cost, and, in some respects, with less possibility of error than when orders are sent by title. Another publishing house, as noted in the last WEEKLY, suggested the extension of this cipher to cover all educational books in the market, and its embodiment as a feature of the Educational Catalogue. In reference to inquiries on the subject, Messrs. Van Antwerp, Bragg & Co. have sent us a letter, of which the following is a part:

In our opinion the "cipher" is a good thing. It enables the dealer or jobber to order by telegraph at a reduced cost of telegraphing. The most valuable argument in its favor is, that it lays aside all doubt as to editions wanted. How often and great are the vexatious delays occasioned by failure of the dealer to specify whether "old or revised editions" are wanted! It is frequently the case that the publisher takes it upon himself to venture putting in an edition of book where not specified, after using his or their best judgment, referring to previous orders, etc., and, after all, the chances are that he has sent the wrong editions to some remote point, and is at a heavy expense for their return. The cipher places the responsibility for error on the persons ordering, as every word (cipher) is for a certain specified edition.

In our judgment the cipher should not contain more than five letters, and should be arranged alphabetically. Ours, as you will see, could be largely improved upon in these respects.

The idea of placing same in the Educational Catalogue we largely favor.

The plan of including a telegraphic cipher in the Educational Catalogue has been discussed in previous years, but we have not quite seen our way clear to the addition of such a feature. It would be necesary, to prevent confusion, to adopt for the Eclectic Series the cipher already in use by its publishers, to preserve the alphabetical character so far as possible by filling in the books of other publishers with code-words between the words of this code, and to continue this process with each fresh issue of the Educational Catalogue, since to change the code-word for a given book year to year, or to use a code-word formerly assigned to one book for a new book which was supposed to supersede it, would lead to indefinite confusion. However, the labor of continuing such a work would be much less than the original labor of producing it. We do not see our way clear, in the present support of the Educational Catalogue and the condition of the educational trade, to undertake the preparation of such a cipher, nor would it be easy to add such a feature to this year's regular issue of the Educational Catalogue, on which the greater part of the editorial work has already been done. We are willing, however, to attempt the preparation of such a code for special subscribers, holding the type of the Educational Catalogue for the purpose, and charging publishers who desire to have their books indexed telegraphically from fifty dollars down to ten dollars, according to the size of their list, and five dollars a copy to subscribers to this code. After that it might be possible, as before stated, to include the feature as a regular part of the catalogue. It is not likely that our own office would reap any great amount of profit from the charge thus made, but the cost would be much less cooperatively distributed than if each publisher undertook to work for himself, and if the cost proved to be less than our estimate, we should make the prices less. We leave it, therefore, for the trade to say whether they are inclined to support such an enterprise.

THE DISINFECTION OF RAGS.

WE give below Secretary Manning's circular revoking all orders heretofore made regulating the inspection or importation of old rags. Considerable feeling was aroused in the paper and allied trades, early in the year, in regard to a regulation which, while intended to protect public health, seemed to be mainly serviceable in annoying importers, and putting money into the pockets of the patentees of the disinfecting process which was ordered to the exclusion of all others.

"Where it has been conclusively shown to the department that, under existing laws, no general regulation can be legally framed whereby the disinfection of old rags can be accomplished in foreign ports to the satisfaction of the several health authorities, therefore it is ordered: 1. That all circulars of this department concerning the disinfection of imported old rags are hereby revoked, and that old rags hereafter imported from foreign countries shall be admitted to entry at the Custom House only upon the production of permits from the health officers at the posts of importation, duly authorizing the landing of the same. 2. Vessels carrying old rags arriving at any United States quarantine will be detained by the quarantine officers and held subject to the order of the proper health authorities at the port of destination."

PERIODICALS VS. BOOKS.

From the Boston Daily Advertiser, May 27.

WE have more than once called attention to the rapid development of periodical literature in America, in contrast with the decay of the publication of such books as do not appear in periodical form.

The national Government has done a great deal to bring about the result which is thus observed. It is now going forward much farther in the same direction. It may be questioned, however, whether the time has not come when it might extend to books, generally so called, the same immense favors which it extends to what it terms "periodicals."

In the infancy of the nation, a very proper desire to instruct all citizens with regard to their public duties led to the policy of carrying newspapers by mail at a very low rate, when they were sent to regular subscribers. It has proved difficult, not to say impossible, to draw any line between a weekly newspaper and a monthly, or even a quarterly; and, under the present statute, any publication issued at regular periods, if those periods are not more than three months in length, ranks as a periodical. It may be circulated at the cheapest rate known to the Post Office Department, which is known as the "second-rate." This advantage was formerly restricted to "regular subscribers," but the inconvenience of a discrimination was very great, and such restrictions are now withdrawn.

To avail themselves of the great advantages of this discrimination in favor of "periodicals," several great publishers now issue books as "periodicals," in what are called "libraries." Each number of the "periodical" contains only one book. Messrs. Harper, for instance, issue the Franklin Square Library, of which each number is a separate volume of some one book. Mr. Munro issues the Seaside Library in the same way. The most distant purchaser has simply to order one specimen copy of one of these periodicals, and to indicate the specimen he would be glad to see, and he receives it with the rapidity and the surety of the mail, and the cheapness of the "second-rate," or newspaper postage.

But the same book, which is thus published, might be printed in the same form, on similar type, by another publisher, who does not carry on a "periodical library," and then the purchaser, in any part of the country, must pay for its transfer, if it come by mail, eight cents a pound, because it is not a "periodical," while he would pay only two cents a pound, were it published as a periodical. Even this low rate for the periodical is to be reduced one half on the first of July, when all second-class matter will be forwarded by mail, for one cent a pound.

It is thus, that for every number of the large monthlies, which is sent by mail, as for every novel or other book printed in a "periodical," the Government makes an annual allowance, or grant, of forty-eight cents to the subscriber, which he would have to pay for the carriage of books, if he bought books of the same weight. Suppose his novel costs twenty-five cents. The discrimination made in favor of the novel published as a "periodical," against that not in a periodical, amounts to sixteen per cent of its cost. After July it will be thirty-two per cent.

Our readers, then, have only to suppose that he express and freight companies of the country, for whatever reason, should discriminate in favor of Mr. Jones's boots, against Mr. Smith's boots, by carrying Mr. Jones's cases so much cheaper than Mr. Smith's that in the year's business the saving by one manufacturer in freights, in competition with the other, should amount to sixteen per cent of the cost of the article, if such a thing were possible, and ask themselves what would become of Mr. Smith's business in face of such a discrimination against him, and they will understand what has become of the legitimate book business of the country in face of the privileges given to "periodicals."

The remedy for such unjust discrimination is to place all books alike on the second-rate list. In its arrangements for cheap postage on printed matter, as they have been carried out now for nearly a century, the United States made itself, long ago, the most munificent patron of literature ever known. The occasional gifts of emperors and other princes for the issue of this or that book of luxury are as nothing in comparison with that wise and equal generosity which has for a century brought every day to the cabin of the poor and the palace of the rich the printed page which the poor man or the rich man wanted. A government which has meant to be even handed has made this daily gift more than princely, more than imperial, to every resident within its borders, of whatever rank and whatever party, at a cost to him which is scarcely more than nominal. Our subscribers who receive the Daily Advertiser in Oregon pay to the United States less for bringing it to them than our subscribers in Roxbury here at home pay to those whose private enterprise delivers it. The cost of this magnificent system for universal education has never been burdensome. In a business of $40,000,000 carried on by the post-office in the last year, the receipts came within $3,600,000 of the expenditure. The advantages insured for public education, public morals, and the comfort of the people were worth vastly more. A simple extension of the same system so that it may cover all books might even reduce this small balance of expense. It would certainly remove unjust irregularities now existing. It would restore "books" to their normal and fit place in American literature.

GOETHE'S AND SCHILLER'S PUBLISHERS.

From the Evening Post.

THE firm of Cotta at Stuttgart, publishers of Goethe's works, make the following statement through the organ of the German book-trade in regard to the sums paid for the copyright of Goethe's works from 1795 to 1865, at which date they became public property. Goethe himself received in round numbers, in American money, $100,000, Goethe's heirs (since 1832) $118,000; in all, the firm paid $218,000. This is the first authentic statement, and it is now made in correction of an erroneous computation from figures not long ago published in Cotta's correspondence with Schiller, which made $114,000 the total paid by Cotta for Goethe's works. From this correspondence it also appears that Goethe was hard to deal with, and fully aware of the commercial value of his writings, while Schiller was liberal in the extreme. He had little occasion to regret the confidence he placed in Cotta, whose imprint all his books bore after 1794. From this date to 1805 Schiller received $14,400 from Cotta (for "Wallenstein" and all he wrote subsequently); Schiller's heirs received about $52,500 more. It has to be taken into consideration that up to 1830 (and in some smaller States —"Raubstaaten"—to a much later date) book-pirating was as flourishing a trade in Germany as it now is here, and Cotta had only a small field which the emperor's "Privilegien" covered, and even this was flooded with unlawful reprints. But making allowance for the higher value of a thaler then, these sums, as they stand, should dispose of the ridiculous fiction of the feasting publisher and the starving poet. Cotta's dealings with Schiller reflect much credit on him; and, in perusing the published correspondence, it is difficult to say whether the publisher or the poet was the more generous or large-hearted of the two. When "Wallenstein" proved a better success than the publisher had anticipated, he added of his own free will to the stipulated $1000 royalty half as much more; and when Schiller was unwilling to accept for the "Bride of Messina," because a shorter piece and sold at a lower price, the honorarium agreed upon in advance for every new drama (three hundred ducats), Cotta insisted on his taking the full amount, and declined taking off fifty ducats as Schiller proposed. "I should act ignobly if I availed myself of your offer," Cotta writes, and on another occasion: "In my opinion the honorarium can never be an equivalent for the poet's work, and the publisher's obligation does not cease with paying it. Whenever the success of a book warrants it I shall gladly do more in recognition of such a man's friendship. I shall feel myself your perpetual debtor." The book is full of such traits, and rebounds to the credit of both men as well as the present proprietors of Cotta's firm, who have handed over for publication unreservedly all the letters in their possession to and from Schiller. There is no occasion to wish a single line suppressed.

JAMES R. OSGOOD.

From the Boston Daily Advertiser, June 11.

THE announcement that is made this morning in a communication to the Advertiser by Mr. James R. Osgood, that he has accepted a business proposition made by the Harpers of New York, and will remove from Boston to that city, will be received with mingled feelings of gratification and regret, gratification that his character and business qualifications have received so prompt recognition after misfortune, and regret that Boston is to lose a citizen who has done so much to honor and augment its reputation as a centre of the book publishing trade. The names of the firms of Fields, Osgood & Co., Houghton, Osgood & Co., and of James R. Osgood & Co. will not soon pass from the kindly remembrance of the people of this city or the lovers of good literature throughout the land. Their works do praise them. The aims of all the firms with which Mr. Osgood has been connected have been conspicuously high. Those who have had dealings with them in a business way, and those who only watched for the books bearing their imprint, have had abundant evidence of this, and it is a well-appreciated fact in the knowledge of authors that Mr. Osgood's urbanity, consideration, and liberality have gone far to make such accusations as once were common against publishers seem impossible and malicious. Mr. Osgood did not accept the proposition to go away until the affairs of the firm with which he was lately connected were satisfactorily adjusted, and all the arrangements looking to the establishment of the new firm which takes its place have been helped forward by him with earnestness and cordial good-will. In his new field he will have the hearty good wishes of a host of warm friends, to whom his prosperity and happiness are dear.

We give below in full the communication to which the above refers:

To the Editors of the Boston Daily Advertiser.

From the fact of your making inquiry concerning my future movements, I infer that you regard them as of some public interest. Permit me, therefore, to state that I am at present awaiting here the final settlement of the affairs of the late firm of James R. Osgood & Co. When that shall be accomplished I expect to remove to New York and to become connected with Messrs. Harper & Bros., who, upon learning of my recent business misfortune, with characteristic hospitality, promptly renewed an offer made me several years ago of a position in their house. While I deeply regret leaving Boston and my many friends here, my regret is tempered by the reflection that my future associations are to be of so pleasant and satisfactory a character. With thanks for your manifestation of interest,

I am very respectfully yours,

JAMES R. OSGOOD.

BOSTON, June 10, 1885.

BUSINESS NOTES.

CONCORD, N. H. — On June 5 Daniel L. Guernsey, dealer in books and stationery, made an assignment to William M. Chase for the benefit of his creditors.

DETROIT, MICH.—C. Q. G. Paine, dealer in subscription books, has been succeeded by the Paine Publishing Company.

GALVESTON, TEX.—Victor Biron, bookseller, has sold out.

GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—The firm of Eaton, Lyon & Allen has been dissolved by mutual consent, Mr. Henry G. Allen retiring. Messrs. Charles W. Eaton and Charles D. Lyon will continue the business at the old stand under the firm name of Eaton & Lyon.

NEWARK, OHIO.—Mr. G. B. Whiting has associated with himself in the book and stationery business Mr. A. P. Taylor. The firm will hereafter be Taylor & Whiting.

NEW YORK CITY.—Mr. Charles Collins, successor to Collins & Brother, has withdrawn from business as bookseller and stationer in favor of A. S. Barnes & Co., with whom he will have office room for the present. He has transferred to Messrs. Barnes & Co. the patterns of his blank books, etc., so that they will be able to furnish the same styles that he has heretofore supplied. His lines of educational books are still published by him, but are sold by Baker & Taylor.

PHILADELPHIA, PA.—A. G. La Rue, formerly with E. Claxton & Co., has opened an office at Chestnut Hill. He makes a specialty of securing books hard to find and out of print.

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—E. Darrow & Co. give notice that they are going out of the miscellaneous book business.

ROCKFORD, ILL.—H. W. Goodwin, bookseller and stationer, has sold out to J. W. Seccont.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

FROM the office of The Index, 44 Boylston Street, Boston, has just been published "Twenty-five Sermons of Twenty-five Years," by William J. Potter, a volume which serves as a memorial record of his twenty-five years' ministry.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just issued a story entitled "Upon a Cast," by Charlotte Dunning, a new writer of considerable promise. The scene is laid in a quiet little country town on the banks of the Hudson within a few hours' distance of New York.

P. BLAKISTON, SON & CO. have nearly ready the second volume of "The Practice of Commercial Organic Analysis," by Alfred H. Allen, which will treat of fixed oils and fats, tannins, hydrocarbons, phenols and their allies and derivatives, coloring matter, etc.

THE first volume of General Grant's memoirs will not appear till December, the second not till about March, 1886. Mr. C. L. Webster, of the firm publishing it, will go to Europe to arrange simultaneous issues in several other languages, besides French, German, and Italian.

THE base-ball nines of the employés of Charles Scribner's Sons and of Funk & Wagnalls played a game at Third Avenue and Sixty-third Street, Brooklyn, on the 13th inst. The score was as follows:

Charles Scribner's Sons	0	0	5	5	2	0—12
Funk & Wagnalls	0	3	2	0	8	8—21

Game was called on account of darkness.

GINN & CO. will issue about July 15, "Questions on Cæsar and Xenophon," by Professor E. C. Ferguson, of Chaddock College, Quincy, Ill. The object of these questions, which are almost wholly grammatical and cover the entire first books of Cæsar and Xenophon, is to furnish a guide by which the young student may as speedily as possible lay hold of the facts he requires. It aims not to do the work for the student, but to show how he may do it for himself. About the same time they will publish "Andreas: A Legend of St. Andrew," edited by Professor W. M. Baskervill, of Vanderbilt University.

N. TIBBALS & SONS, N. Y., will publish July 1, "The Parallel Testament and Psalms," (Columbian Oxford edition,) containing the old and new versions, the marginal readings of the old version, notes of the new version, notes of the American Committee, chronology of the New Testament, index of subjects, all on the page with the text, together with a history of the committee of revision, edited, with a history of the three great authorities of the Greek Testament, by Rev. Daniel Curry, D.D. The work will be set in bourgeois type, and will make a twelvemo volume of about 875 pages. They will also issue the Psalms separately.

A CURRENT literary note is to the following effect: "Mr. Tennyson has changed his publishers about half a dozen times within the same number of years, in order to reap amplified profits from his copyrights. He is now a man of large wealth." This is met by the editor of Appleton's Literary Bulletin with the assertion that "Mr. Tennyson has certainly not changed his publishers more than once or twice in a half dozen years. Macmillan & Co. are now his publishers; for a long time Kegan Paul & Co. and their predecessors, King & Co., gave their imprimatur to his books. He received from his former publishers the stipulated sum of five thousand pounds a year, whether he published anything new or not. It is not stated what his terms are with his present publishers."

THE J. B. LIPPINCOTT CO. are getting under way their new books for the fall. The list will comprise, ballad of "The Hermit," by Oliver Goldsmith, fully illustrated; "Lamia," by John Keats, with numerous photogravure illustrations; "Poetic Thoughts, with Pictures," containing photogravures from original paintings; "The Inca Princess," a poem, by Mrs. M. B. M. Toland, author of "Sir Rae," illustrated; "Here and There in Our Own Country," being sketches of travel and description of places by various well-known authors; "Our Young Folks' Roman Empire," by William Shepard, author of "Young Folks' Plutarch;" "Young Folks' Queries;" "The Golden Treasury Calendar," and "The Enchiridion of Criticism," a companion volume to "The Enchiridion of Wit."

G. P. PUTNAM'S SONS have accepted the agency for the United States for the publications of the Victoria Institute of Great Britain. The first issues in the series, which is printed in uniform octavo pamphlets, will be as follows: "On the Absence of Real Opposition between Science and Revelation," by Prof. G. G. Stokes, with a preface referring to the present so-called controversy, and including the opinions of Profs. Huxley, Tyndall, Darwin, Sir C. Lyell, and others; "The New Materialism," by Prof. L. S. Beale, M. D.; "On Herbert Spencer's Theory of the Will," by Rev. W. D. Ground, with addition by the Rt. Hon. the Lord O' Neill; "The Theory of Evolution Taught by Haeckel, and held by his Followers," by J. Hassell; "The Origin of Man," by Archdeacon Bardsley; "Climate in Relation to Organic Nature," by Surg.-Gen. C. A. Gordon, M. D., (comments by Sir R. Bennett, Sir J. Fayrer, M. D., and others;) "Considerations on the Unknown and the Unknowable of Modern Thought, or, Is it Possible to know God?" by Prof. J. J. Lias; "The Modern Science of Religion," by Rev. G. Blencowe; "Babylonian Cities," by Mr. Rassam, with accounts of his discovery of Nineveh, Babylon, Sepharvaim, etc.; "Prehistoric Man in Egypt," by Vice-Chancellor Sir W. Dawson, with plates; "Recent Egyptological Research," by Tomkins, Naville, Lane Poole, and others; and "Buddhism and Christianity," an inquiry from all sources into the question, by the Rev. R. Collins, of Ceylon, Dr. Leitner, of Lahore, Vice-Chancellor of the University of the Punjàb, and President of the Aujumàn Punjàb (a society of native and other Indian literati), Prof. Rhys Davids, Mr. Coles, of Ceylon, and others, with a note on Krishna.

MACMILLAN & CO. have nearly ready Matthew Arnold's "Discourses in America."

GEORGE BELL & CO., London, will shortly issue a volume of "Poems," by Victor Hugo, translated by several English writers.

THE Berlin Tageblatt announces that Goethe's manuscript diary from 1777 to 1832 has been discovered among his grandson's papers.

GENERAL GORDON'S journals will be published almost intact, rumors to the contrary notwithstanding. Sir Henry Gordon has struck out only a very few passages, containing, in his opinion, no matter of public interest.

THE extensive library of the late Mr. Welford, which is rich in works of bibliography, biography, and local topography, will be sold by auction toward the end of this month by Messrs. Hodgson & Co., of London.

ANOTHER volume is announced in the Epochs of Modern History—"The Early Hanoverians," by Mr. E. E. Morris, formerly of Lincoln College, Oxford, and now Professor of English in the University of Melbourne, who was originally, we believe, one of the joint-editors of the series.

"IT may be interesting," says the London Athenæum, "to note the amounts received by Victor Hugo from the firm of Lacroix Verboekhoven for several of his works—viz., for 'Les Misérables,' 350,000 fr.; 'Les Travailleurs de la Mer,' 150,000 fr.; 'Chansons des Rues et Bois,' 40,000 fr.; 'Shakespeare,' 40,000 fr.; and 'L'Homme qui Rit,' 200,000 fr."

MESSRS. LONGMANS announce a new series of small books under the title, Epochs of Church History, edited by Professor Creighton. Among the volumes in preparation are "The Church of the Early Fathers," by Dr. A. Plummer; "The Arian Controversy," by the Rev. H. M. Gwatkin; "The Church and the Roman Empire," by the Rev. A. Carr; "The Church and the Eastern Empire," by the Rev. H. F. Tozer; "England and the Papacy," by the Rev. W. Hunt; "Wyclif and the Beginnings of the Reformation," by Mr. Reginald Lane Poole; "The German Reformation," by the Editor; "The Religious Revival in the Eighteenth Century," by the Rev. J. H. Overton; "The Spiritual Expansion of England," being an account of English missions, by the Rev. H. W. Tucker; "The University of Cambridge," by Mr. J. Bass Mullinger. Several other works are announced as intended to appear in the series, but the names of their authors are not yet mentioned.

BOOKS WANTED.

Under the heading "Books Wanted," subscribers are entitled to a free insertion of five lines for books out of print, exclusive of address, in each issue. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, as well as repeated matter, must be charged for at the rate of 10 cents per line.

☞ Copy for this Department must reach us Wednesday Evening to be in time for insertion in same week's issue.

☞ It is desirable to receive copy in shape ready for the printer, viz.: first, headline—name and address—then, titles in separate lines (see below), all written on detached slips, or at the bottom of letter, or on postal card. Compliance with this request will secure accurate and prompt insertion.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price.

The new AMERICAN CATALOGUE, supplementing the great work of the late Frederick Leypoldt, includes titles of about 20,000 books, recorded as issued between July 1, 1876, and June 30, 1884. It can be bound as one volume or in two, duplicate title-pages being supplied. It comprises:

1. List of American publishers, with addresses;
2. Author and Title Alphabet, 1876–1884;
3. Subject Alphabet, 1876–1884;
4. List of Government Publications, from the completion of the Government List to June 30, 1884;
5. List of American Publishing Societies and their regular issues;
6. List of Libraries, Series, Collections, etc.;
7. Omissions from Cheap Libraries.

—making the most complete working bibliography yet issued in any country. The edition, from type, is limited to 1250 copies, of which about 800 are already absorbed. The price is $12.50 in paper parts, $15 one volume (742 pages, 4to), half morocco. This makes it the cheapest catalogue of its kind ever issued.

About 30 copies only remain of the original AMERICAN CATALOGUE of 1876 (2 vols., over 1400 pages), and librarians or other book-people not owning copies should secure them at once. The price is now $40 paper, $44, 2 vols., half morocco. It will soon be raised to $50, paper.

Five-yearly supplements hereafter will enhance the value of the original work and of the first supplement. Every owner of a private library and book-collector, as well as every bookseller and librarian, should have this invaluable key to American books.

ADDRESS

THE AMERICAN CATALOGUE,

31 and 32 PARK ROW (P. O. BOX 943), NEW YORK.

Booksellers, especially those who sympathize with the work, are urged to keep these books in stock. The limited discount prevents underselling, and makes the books safe to handle, and there should be a large sale in educational institutions and among young men.

A NEW AND INTERESTING VOLUME OF MISSION LIFE AND WORK IN CHINA.

The Cross and the Dragon;

OR, LIGHT IN THE BROAD EAST.

BY REV. B. C. HENRY, FOR TEN YEARS A MISSIONARY IN CHINA.

One volume, beautifully printed, with a map and 20 illustrations, price, $2.00.

The book contains 500 pages, has a map and 20 illustrations, and presents a comprehensive view of the Southern portion of the great empire of China in relation to the work of missions. In the opening chapters the natural features of the country, the distribution of its vast population, and the facilities for reaching the people are clearly set forth. The life, customs, and characteristics of the people, their three great systems of belief—Confucianism, Buddhism, and Taoism—are treated in a popular way, with abundance of illustration and anecdote. The peculiarities of ancestral worship and Geomancy or Earth Divination, the popular objects of worship, the feasts, pastimes and the rich folk-lore of the people are presented with a vividness due to familiarity with the daily life of the people.

In his introduction to the book Mr. Joseph Cook says; "The puzzle of the Chinese mind, character, politics, social life, and religion, I, for one, have found no key to unlock except the conversation and writings of missionaries who have studied these subjects for years at first hand. I congratulate the reader of this volume on the opportunity it gives him of absorbing ripe opinions on high matters concerning which ordinary books of travel are poor authorities. . . . . The dawn of occidental forms of civilization, the day-star of Christianity begins to rise on these uncounted masses of human beings in the land of their vast and varied resources. This book is a vivid picture of the holy breaking of the light after an Oriental night." We urge the reading of the book in hope that the enthusiasm of the author may be communicated to his readers, and the Christian Church be inspired to greater efforts for the Christianization, education and civilization of China.

BOOKS FOR THE YOUNG.

A GUIDE FOR PARENTS AND CHILDREN. Second Edition, with Revisions to Date. Compiled by Miss C. M. HEWINS, Librarian of the Hartford Library Association.

"Meets most admirably the demand for carefully selected lists, and contains valuable and interesting counsel."—W. E. FOSTER.

"By far the best catalogue of books of this kind that has ever appeared."—S. S. GREEN.

"Deserves more extended praise than we have space for. It will bring joy to the hearts of hundreds of parents."—Nation.

"For them (the parents), as well as for librarians and teachers, the book will serve an excellent purpose, for it is by far the best guide that has been printed, and there is nothing in it that is not of excellent and interesting quality."—Boston Transcript.

"A little manual long needed. A classified list of good books is given, with indications as to age and sex to which they are best suited. The list is prefaced by hints as to how children should be taught the right use of books, a note on good reading in English and American history for children, and a 'symposium' on children's books, containing interesting extracts from many sources. Miss Hewins may safely be accepted as an authority and guide by parents and buyers of children's books."—Good Literature.
